The importance of a high quality preschool education is paramount, especially right now when so much learning has been disrupted by the pandemic. The strong foundation established during preschool allows students to become strong readers and writers, adept mathematicians, and well rounded students. Our focus on learning through play also allows the students to practice social and emotional skills required to get along with those around them. We have seen, first hand, how quickly the students grasp the information and continue to grow in their love of education for years to come.
